Gaza Situation Update & SAMS Interventions

SAMS teams on the ground are witnessing the devastating human toll of the ongoing crisis in Gaza. Patients—many of them children—arrive at our clinics with severe injuries, while families struggle to access even the most basic care amid destroyed health facilities. We are also seeing rising cases of preventable illnesses linked to unsafe water and poor sanitation, alongside widespread trauma and anxiety.

Through these immense challenges, SAMS continues to deliver lifesaving care. Our staff are providing health, dental, and mental health services through two fixed clinics and three mobile clinics, while distributing infection prevention and control materials, medications, and medical supplies. We are also investing in medical education and training to strengthen local capacity.

The scale of the crisis continues to grow. Between October 7, 2024, and July 9, 2025, more than 57,680 people have been killed and 137,409 injured, according to the Ministry of Health in Gaza. Over one million people are food insecure, and more than one million children urgently need mental health support (OCHA, UNICEF 2025).

Looking ahead, SAMS will expand its outreach, facilitate medical supply shipments from the West Bank, and support minor hospital rehabilitation efforts—bringing hope and critical care to those who need it most.

Reaching Communities Across Gaza

Between April and June 2025, SAMS delivered lifesaving care across Gaza, reaching thousands of individuals in both the northern and southern regions. Our teams provided essential services to people of all ages—from children and adults to the elderly—ensuring that no one is left behind. On the ground, medical staff saw the human toll of the crisis: children arriving with trauma and injuries, families struggling to access basic care, and elderly patients needing support for chronic illnesses and preventive care.

In South Gaza, SAMS reached thousands through fixed and mobile clinics. Women and men received care for acute and chronic conditions, while children accessed pediatric services, vaccinations, and mental health support. Elderly patients received specialized attention, mobile dental units treated children and adults, and health education sessions empowered families to protect themselves from infectious diseases.

In North Gaza, SAMS delivered similar interventions, bringing services directly to neighborhoods cut off from hospitals. Mental health teams provided counseling and psychosocial support, while families received medications, infection prevention supplies, and health guidance, strengthening community resilience.

Stories from Gaza

Families in Gaza continue to endure unbearable hardship—multiple displacements, loss of loved ones, severe injuries, famine, and the daily struggle to feed their children. Parents describe watching their daughters cry for bread, sons risking their lives for a kilo of flour, and entire families going hungry for days. The famine has devastated not only physical health but also mental well-being, with mothers and children suffering from trauma, grief, and hopelessness.

When the children ask us for food, I tell them, 'I'm sorry, there's no food left.' Where are we supposed to wait, and where can we go? Who will bring us food? Who will have mercy on us?
